Frank Monahan is a children's book author from Fairfax, VA. Before taking up writing, Frank was a microbiologist for over 20 years, followed by a career at the executive level of several marketing and advertising companies. He was inspired to write his first books when his family got two adorable Basset hound puppies named Stanley & Norman.

Watching their antics, Frank began the Stanley & Norman Series of books. So far two have been published, a third is only weeks away, and a fourth book is in process.

His stories of Stanley & Norman are derived from true events, each book teaching children a valuable lesson in life as depicted by the two puppies.
